

Progress, but Not Perfection.

The MTP Amendment
Act, 2021 – a step forward for abortion
access, but still far
from complete autonomy.

The amendment extended abortion access from 20 to 24 weeks for select cases — survivors of sexual assault, minors, and fetal anomalies.

But decisions remain in the hands of medical boards and doctors — not the person seeking care.

When permission replaces autonomy, rights remain
conditional.

Access must mean choice –
not approval.
